

FIGURED VASE AND ARCHAIC IONIC FIGURES.
THE "CLOTHED" KOUROS TYPE

One of the most representative types of the archaic Ionic coroplastic art is the so-called "clothed kouros". While the creation of the iconographic type can be plausibly ascribed to southern Ionia, its realization, both as figurines and as figured vase, brings into play a complex web of centers promoting iconographic and stylistic models, raw material source sites, "ateliers créateurs" and "ateliers dérivatifs", "régions stylistiques", places where the finished
